Additional issues

- 2023/24 agreed budget savings - £33.479m out of £64.619m are “high risk” (i.e. unlikely to be delivered)
- Equal pay - £650 - £760m not currently included in the MTFS
- Oracle implementation – impact on reserves

My thoughts.....

- Both capital and revenue budgets require fundamental review to generate savings
- Work to be done on the deliverability of savings
- Much work is underway – including a “star chamber” process
- The end point is a scrutiny review of the Budget Savings and Recovery Plan for the 24/25 budget – November/December 2023

But....

- Should Scrutiny just wait for the results of the review and scrutinize the saving list?
- How can Scrutiny engage with the star chamber process?

How can Scrutiny be proactive and add value to this process, avoiding duplication?

Workshop

Generating Scrutiny Questions

“The important and most difficult job is never to find the right answers, it is to find the right questions” (Peter Drucker)

The Challenge

What questions can scrutiny ask and explore in order to make a positive contribution to the savings identification process?

Questions and Key Lines of Enquiry Discussed at the Workshop

- All scrutiny committees need to review their work programme and identify what can be delayed to give space to this work.
- Information required on:
 - What and who the “star chamber process” is, including what they will be reviewing to ensure there is no duplication.
- Are there any previous scrutiny recommendations that suggested ways that savings / efficiency could be achieved that have not yet been implemented? Can these be taken forward?

Cont'd

- Officers to be asked for the current list of agreed savings to be broken down per committee so that scrutiny committees can;
 - Undertake a reality check of how / when / how much can now be delivered.
 - Understand why these savings were put forward and agreed as part of the budget process but are now considered high and medium risk.
 - Ensure that all further savings proposals can be implemented on time and that they deliver the savings identified.
- Resources scrutiny committee to:
 - Review the various assumptions in the MTFP
 - Request other scrutiny committees review the assumptions made in lines such as “demand and complex growth”

Cont'd

- Potential more detailed reviews:
 - Duplication between departments.
 - Income generation possibilities e.g. commercial rental income
 - Invest to save possibilities in the capital programme
- Timescale
 - Much work needs to be completed over the next few weeks to ensure that recommendations are formally discussed and approved in the September scrutiny meetings
 - Scrutiny review of the Budget Savings & Recovery Plan need to be timetabled for later in the autumn (November/December)
