1. The Fourth Function

In addition to the Full Council itself, there are four, rather than the sometimes quoted three, principal areas of municipal function. These are Executive, Regulatory, Scrutiny and Civic. The fourth of these, which is delivered through the Lord Mayor's Office, arguably has the longest tradition and is the most widely recognised by our citizens. However it is perhaps less well recognised in parts of the City Council itself.

Birmingham is the largest local authority in Europe and the Civic function of the Council should be commensurate with this status. The underlying objective of the Lord Mayor's Office is serving the people of Birmingham and, within the bounds defined by law and the provisions of the Council's constitution, interpreting the role of Lord Mayor in the context of Birmingham, its values, heritage, customs, practices and civic tradition and upholding the broad and lasting interests of the wider council, our communities and our citizens as a whole.

The Civic Office carries out a wide range of public duties on behalf of the Council and the people of Birmingham. While there are great variations in roles, the concept of 'Mayor' is recognised throughout the country and indeed worldwide. Thus the Lord Mayor has many occasions on which to promote the image and importance of Birmingham in both a regional, national and international context should opportunity be taken of this.

The principal function of the Civic Office is to serve and to represent. The Lord Mayor and civic dignitaries are the representative face of Birmingham and promote the city locally, nationally and internationally. The tradition, standing and impartiality of the office of Lord Mayor help to transcend barriers; and the Lord Mayor represents the Birmingham community at formal ceremonies and on both joyous and tragic occasions.

Members of the City Council are used to serving all their constituents regardless of political support, but the Lord Mayor belongs to the public as a whole in an even more fundamental way due to the extent of the Lord Mayor's contact with communities across the city.

The Lord Mayor is politically neutral - the First Citizen being above political controversy. This is a vitally important aspect of the role and it is one that distinguishes the Lord Mayor from executive Mayors (directly elected Mayors).

The office of Mayor, together with the Domesday Book and the Feudal System, were brought to this country by the Normans. In continental Europe the office has existed since at least the fifth century.

The right to appoint a Lord Mayor is a relatively rare honour that is even less frequently bestowed than city status. Currently, 23 cities in England have Lord Mayors: Birmingham, Bradford, Bristol, Canterbury, Chester, Coventry, Exeter, Kingston-upon-Hull, Leeds, Leicester, Liverpool, the City of London, Manchester, Newcastle upon Tyne, Norwich, Nottingham, Oxford, Plymouth, Portsmouth, Sheffield, Stoke-on-Trent, the City of Westminster and York.

The role of the Chairman of a District Council is the same as the Mayor of a Borough Council, and they have the same status as first citizen, after the Sovereign, in their district.

While in other countries the role of Mayor may have more formal powers than here, most Lord Mayors refer to the esteem in which the role is held by the general public. This stems in part from history - in the 17th and 18th centuries formal mayoral power was considerable.

The office has a central part to play in modern councils and modern society and arguably a growing one. Part of this role is as a result of the traditions it inherits. The First Citizen in any community is in a special position, and a lot of the prestige associated with the role is bound up in the traditions and ceremony that surround the Mayoralty.

The dignity of the office of Lord Mayor is protected by a time-honoured range of protocols and customs and in taking on the role, a Councillor is becoming part of this City's long history of local democratic institutions. It goes without saying that the office of Lord Mayor is immeasurably more important than the individual occupying the position. People expect that the First Citizen in their community will be shown the greatest respect. The protocols are shown in Appendix 1.

The Lord Mayor's impartiality and the avoidance of contentious issues in public discussion is essential if he / she is to represent the citizens of Birmingham as a whole. The taking of a public position on any issue is a potential wedge between the Lord Mayor and a section of the local community.

The title Lord Mayor has been accorded to the first citizen of the City of Birmingham since 1896 and the Lord Mayor shall, by law, have precedence in the City but not so as to prejudicially affect Her Majesty's Royal Prerogative. The Lord Mayor is styled 'The Right Worshipful the Lord Mayor of Birmingham' and has precedence immediately after the Royal Family in civic premises and after the Lord Lieutenant elsewhere in the City.

The limited nature of the formal powers of the Lord Mayor does not mean a lack of significance for the role or an inability to initiate beneficial change. Indeed, combined with the absolute impartiality that goes with the office of Lord Mayor, the freedom from formal powers can be a positive asset. Moreover, with the enormous number of engagements that are undertaken by the first citizen, it would be impossible to exercise day to day executive powers with due deliberation.

The volume of engagements undertaken by the Lord Mayor is not an indicator of quality and if excessive can limit the opportunities during a Mayoralty to take full advantage of the multitude of contacts and subsequent connections that could be made while the influence of being Lord Mayor is available.

It is important that a reasonable proportion of the engagements should be proactive, for example those relating to the Lord Mayor's objectives for the year, and that requests from organisations that have not received a mayoral visit previously are encouraged. A mayoral year should not merely be a repeat of previous years.

It is also important that people at all levels of community and voluntary organisations, particularly those in 'the front line' get a share of Mayoral time.

In a sense the Lord Mayor belongs to the people of Birmingham. This perception not only affects the way that the role is carried out but suggests that it is not for others to dispose of or encroach upon.

The Lord Mayoralty is a chance to be exposed to a wide range of issues across the board through first hand observation and through various briefings. It provides an opportunity to reach out, encourage, involve and support and to make productive connections with and between people. What Lord Mayors say and do is heard by hundreds of thousands of people - both personally and through the media.

The city has some of the best civic insignia in the country - a matter for considerable pride and one reason why the attendance of the Lord Mayor at events is so much appreciated. Basic information on the chains, mace and badges is given in Appendix 8.

2. Duties of the Lord Mayor

There are two distinct aspects of the office of Lord Mayor:

The Lord Mayor is the Chair of Council meetings

This is a legal provision of the Local Government Act 1972, enabling Council business to be carried out in an orderly and proper manner, having regard to statutory obligations and the Constitution of the Council for the conduct of meetings. The fact that the first citizen chairs the meetings of the full City Council is an important symbol of the fact that the Council itself is the council of the people of Birmingham.

The Lord Mayor may call an extraordinary meeting of the Council subject to proper procedures being followed.

The person presiding at the Annual meeting must give a casting vote in the event of any equality of votes for the election of the new Lord Mayor. Such a casting vote would be in addition to a 'deliberative' (ordinary) vote. (1972 Local Government Act sec 4(3)).

The Lord Mayor is the first citizen of the City.

The majority of the Lord Mayor's responsibilities relate to the 'first citizen' function of representing the Council, the city and its people and in so doing meeting a wide range of voluntary organisations, charities, employers, agencies, civic heads from other Local Authorities, consular and diplomatic representatives, Heads of State and members of the Royal Family.

Many of the Lord Mayor's duties are ambassadorial, representing the people and the City both at home and abroad. Responsibilities are many and varied and include, as examples:

- Presiding as ceremonial head for the Council over its civic functions and social occasions
- Acting as a focal point in times of crisis, tragedy or triumph. This arises as a consequence of precedence.
- Hosting events, receiving and welcoming members of the Royal Family, dignitaries and visitors, at all times observing the recognised protocol.
- Taking part in functions as a representative of the people of Birmingham or the City Council.
- Maintaining good relationships and links with the Armed Services and veterans' organisations, including the taking of salutes and presiding at Freedom of the City ceremonies.
- Working proactively for the Lord Mayor's Charity and supporting many other charities.
- Promoting and raising the profile of many Council initiatives and projects that benefit the citizens of Birmingham.
- Encouraging active citizenship and facilitating participation by all in the life of the city.
- Maintaining good relationships and working with faith organisations within the city, attending a variety of religious occasions and making visits.
- Supporting voluntary activities that benefit the local community and the people of Birmingham.
- Celebrating local success and recognising achievement both internal and external to the Council.
- Opening significant buildings, exhibitions and businesses

- Joining citizens in community events.
- Enhancing social cohesion, making connections and expressing the unity of the city.
- Acting as a reassuring reminder of tradition and constancy in a volatile world.
- Acting as an ambassador for the city both nationally and internationally.

The Lord Mayor also has a role in friendly relations between Birmingham and other cities and regions both at home and abroad. This latter includes, but is not confined to, twinning and Sister Cities. In more recent times, trade and the economic considerations have played a major role but the importance of cultural and social linkage and understanding should not be lost.

There is also scope for simpler, community-to-community friendship links. Birmingham has a substantial and thriving Irish community; many having close family connections with County Councils throughout Ireland, and reciprocal visits take place regularly. Birmingham also has very strong links with the town of Albert in France, having been one of the 'War Godmother Towns' that helped to rebuild Albert after the First World War.

The Lord Mayor hosts a number of civic functions during the year. The Head of Lord Mayor's Office, has the responsibility of making high level connections with a very wide range of external organisations.

Examples of the demands of the role can be found in Appendix 2.

3. Other Civic Positions

The Deputy Lord Mayor

In Birmingham the position of Deputy Lord Mayor is occupied by the previous year's Lord Mayor.

The Deputy Lord Mayor's principal duties are:

- To assist the Lord Mayor
- To deputise in the absence of the Lord Mayor or at the request of the Lord Mayor at civic or community events.

The Lord Mayor's Deputies

If both the Lord Mayor and the Deputy Lord Mayor are unavailable to cover a particular event, previous Lord Mayors can be called on to act in a civic capacity as deputy and bring their considerable experience to bear as former civic heads.

The former Civic Heads represent one of the primary sources of the civic institutional memory and a number undertake many supportive roles in the office and in the delivery of the civic function, as well as serving on the Lord Mayor's Advisory Group, a Sub-Committee of Council Business Management Committee.

4. Mayoral Links to the Magistracy and Judiciary

The Lord Mayor's formal link to the magistracy disappeared many years ago, by virtue of the Administration of Justice Act 1973 and section 10(2) of the Justices of the Peace Act 1979, although equivalent powers were retained by the Lord Mayor of London. Nevertheless, the Lord Mayor can perform certain tasks in a manner similar to a JP.

For example, the Lord Mayor may:

- Take and authenticate by their signature any written declaration not made on oath;
- Give a certificate of facts within their knowledge or of their opinion as to any matter;
- Sign any document for the purpose of authenticating another person's signature.

The Lord Mayor, in conjunction with the Liaison Judge and the Chairman of the Birmingham Bench, presides at the swearing in ceremonies for new magistrates. In recent years there has been an expanded range of informal connections that are much appreciated.

The Lord Mayor meets with members of the Judiciary on a number of occasions and through the Honorary Recorder may sit with the Judge in trials held in Birmingham.

5. The Lord Mayor and Voting

At City Council meetings the Lord Mayor may exercise a casting vote (having not voted previously) or indeed a second vote (after voting previously on the issue in question (a 'deliberative vote')).

While some Local Authorities have attempted to point the Lord Mayor towards support for the status quo, there is no convention that the Lord Mayor should seek to vote to protect the status quo.

In fact the law requires that the Lord Mayor has complete freedom in exercising a casting vote and it is important that discretion is not seen to be fettered. The Lord Mayor should always be able to vote in accordance with his or her conscience.

The Lord Mayor may reasonably decline to use a casting vote if an affirmative vote is not required on grounds of urgency and there is an opportunity to consider the matter again in an acceptable period.

However, if there is a risk - reputational, financial or otherwise - to the Council, the Lord Mayor will no doubt deploy a casting vote as he or she sees to be in the best interests of the Council as a whole.

6. Selection of Lord Mayors

The Lord Mayor must be a member of the City Council but it was not until 1974 that it became compulsory for Mayors to be selected from members of the council (Local Government Act 1972 section 3.1).

Previously, under the Local Government Act 1933, the Lord Mayor could be elected from 'those qualified' - which roughly equated to all those entitled to vote in the area.

In Birmingham an agreed formula is applied so that a candidate is presented to the Council from the major political groups in a frequency proportional to their representation on the Council.

7. The Mayoral Year 2018/19

The Lord Mayor's Consort, Mr Winston Mosquito and I, along with Mr Chaudhury Abdul Khaliq, who has assisted me at several official engagements, firstly wholeheartedly thank the staff of the Office of the Lord Mayor, for their outstanding professionalism and considerate support, during the period of office from May 2018 to May 2019. As someone who has held a few senior positions, I, not only with great appreciation, want to recognise them and place on record my highest regard but also make it clear that without them, the Lord Mayor's Consort, my husband Winston Mosquito and Mr Khaliq would not have had any semblance of a successful or enjoyable year. The engagements were unceasing and intense. Anne Kennedy, Sharon Allen, Lynne Simon, Bev Whitehouse, Tarek Chowdhury, Kenneth Bond, Paul Phillips and Gerry Ashford - it is often the people we don't see that are the real unsung workers and heroes and 'sheroes' within our city. Thank you for all your support.

I thank, the Chairman of the Lord Mayors Charity Stephen Goldstein for his passion for the unseen and unheard and his drive to raise over a million pounds for the Lord Mayors Charity. I thank Tim Watts, President of the Patrons Club of the Lord Mayors Charity, who is one of the nobles of our great city; also the dynamic Carmen Watson Chair of the Patrons Club Womens in Business Group – all kind, generous, born and bred, brilliant Brummies. I thank all the Lord Mayor's Charity Patrons, who have kindly agreed to support the Charity and ultimately many good causes in Birmingham.

There are many outstanding individuals who have an unrivalled energy for maintaining the city of Birmingham's traditions and one of them is the witty, razor-sharp Adrian de Redmond, City Armorer and Knight of Malta.

I thank my Councillor colleagues, the wonderful citizens, the great organisations (civilian and military), the public statutory services - the great institutions of Birmingham that form the rich social tapestry that make up Birmingham - for their donations to the Lord Mayors Charity, their hospitality and their expressions of kindness on our various visits and engagements; and also for the many letters, statements and emails of appreciation.

I thank the Lord Lieutenant John Crabtree and his office, along with the High Sheriff 2018/19 Chris Loughran and his wife Jane for their sterling civic contributions and support.

We have been dazzled and humbled by the brilliance, generosity, and creativity of the people of Birmingham; the wealth of diversity is the great strength of our city. I have been enthused by the stunningly beautiful and highly intelligent women of the All Pakistan Women's Association; the hard working members of Women Acting In Today's Society; and the wonderful teachers and children in our schools. I also thank the Rotarians and the faith organisations.

My visit to the Southside in Chicago reinforced my understanding of how our mindset can limit or empower individuals who legitimately live in fear of other people's perceptions.

Our academic institutions, Birmingham City University, Aston University and Birmingham University are world class along with UCB, Matthew Boulton and South and City College. They have undoubtedly enriched our city along with the Chamber of Commerce and the voluntary charitable organisations.

It is my view Birmingham is more than a great city, it contains the spiritual heart of the Commonwealth, and if we as a city truly wish to create a more productively fruitful and dynamic future, we need to connect to those 77 countries, who seek relationships of mutual benefit.

The channels of communication and business development are not limited to one or a few people, they are available to all of us. And I have been privileged to witness those social corridors being formed in China.

Individually and collectively Birmingham has the vantage point to forge innovative relationships, just as other regions have done. Those with vision, energy and capacity must go out and capture talent and resources to create a better place for all of us. No one person or organisation can do this, but a vision that we can all shape, or buy into, needs to be set.

In our current world of social, technological and economic networks, the future prosperity of our city depends upon how we engage. I am not spouting something new – it is a model that already exists and is working to the advantage of others.

I have seen the opportunities, the emerging and embryonic networks, and I hope Birmingham can utilise some of the greatest and most talented people in the world, who have come from all over the country and indeed the world - all of whom are, to use the words of Sir Richard Knowles are “born again Brummies”

We have a wonderful industrial and historical legacy which will help us in the future and will inspire our people.

I have discovered the role of the Lord Mayor goes beyond what I thought was vain, superficial, ritualistic pomp and ceremony when various people cried because the Lord Mayor had attended their event or merely shook their hand. I discovered the Lord Mayor can make people feel special, respected and of value. I have discovered it is a role like no other, which needs to be enhanced not reduced, to promote what is great in Birmingham.

I concur with all that has been said about Birmingham by previous Lord Mayors in their annual reports, it is a great and wonderful city and I am truly proud to be the first person of colour born in Birmingham to become Lord Mayor of Birmingham.

I give God thanks for Birmingham and ask for His continued blessing.

Members who would like to learn more about civic traditions, protocol and ceremonial heritage throughout the country are referred to Civic Ceremonial by Paul Millward - upon which this report draws extensively. The Local Government Acts of 1972 and 2000 give valuable information on precedence and protocol.

A concise history of the Lord Mayoralty in Birmingham has been written by Professor John Stewart of INLOGOV, University of Birmingham. Debrett's Correct Form is also a valuable reference for procedure and etiquette.

Lord Mayoral Protocol

General Information

The Lord Mayor is the first citizen of the City of Birmingham.

In maintaining the dignity of this widely respected position of long standing, it is important that due regard is paid to the office as it has been since the title of Lord Mayor was first accorded in 1896.

There is an established protocol regarding precedence, procedure, speaking arrangements and other matters at events when the Lord Mayor of Birmingham is present. In terms of precedence it is expressly laid down by statute (31 Henry VIII c10) that the determination of precedence is a matter for the Royal prerogative.

The following notes indicate the procedure that should be followed in the City when the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of Birmingham are attending public functions.

Precedence

The Lord Mayor shall, by law, have precedence in the City with the sole exception that this shall not prejudicially affect Her Majesty's Royal Prerogative. This means that the Lord Mayor takes precedence over all other members and officers of the Council at all events.

The Lord Mayor's office will be pleased to assist organisers - within or outside of the Council - on any protocol issues when these involve the attendance of the Lord Mayor, the Lady Mayoress, the Deputy Lord Mayor or a Deputy acting on behalf of the Lord Mayor.

Arrival and Departure

As, in many instances, the Lord Mayor may be unacquainted with those responsible for the organisation of your function, it is mutually helpful if an appointed person meets the Lord Mayor at the entrance to the building when he arrives.

The Lord Mayor (and the Consort/Lady Mayoress if he/she attends) should then be escorted and introduced immediately to the President, Chairman or whoever is acting as host for the function, or, in certain circumstances, to the assembled company.

When the Consort/Lady Mayoress only attends the function, or when the Lord Mayor is represented by the Deputy Lord Mayor or by a Deputy, similar arrangements should be made.

The departure time from the function that has been agreed with the Lord Mayor's Office is expected to be observed.

Reception

When the Lord Mayor of Birmingham enters an assembly it is customary for those present to rise. Similarly, this courtesy is extended to him when he/she leaves the meeting.

Precedence at Visits and Functions

As the first citizen of Birmingham, the Lord Mayor should be the first to receive Royal visitors to the Council. The Lord Mayor should also be the first to receive emissaries and diplomatic visitors such as Ambassadors, Charges d’Affaires or Consuls.

At meetings, unless the Lord Mayor occupies the Chair, he should be seated on the immediate right of the Chairman. This also applies to seating arrangements at lunches and dinners.

At lunches and dinners, when the toast of “The City of Birmingham” is given (although this toast is not obligatory) it usually follows that of “The Queen”.

When the toast is omitted but the Lord Mayor has previously consented to speak, it is customary to accord him/her the privilege of being the first to propose or respond to the toast immediately following the loyal toast.

Similarly at meetings or social gatherings, the Lord Mayor would be the first speaker, although an introduction may appropriately be made by the Chairman of the meeting.

In programmes or printed material that contains a ‘welcome’ at an event where the Lord Mayor is to be present, the ‘welcome’ should be by the Lord Mayor or, if several ‘welcomes’ are included, that of the Lord Mayor should be first.

Information for the Lord Mayor

The provision of a comprehensive briefing is essential to the Lord Mayor’s participation in your event. The briefing form, which must be completed in full with no elements omitted, should be sent to the Lord Mayor’s Office at the earliest convenient date but at least two weeks before the function.

Photographs, Filming and Recorded Interviews

The Lord Mayor and the Consort/Lady Mayoress will normally be pleased to be included in a reasonable number of photographs taken at your event. However, photographs must on no account be used for commercial or political purposes.

If the event is to be filmed, this should be notified to the Lord Mayor’s Office in advance. If, in addition to other participation in the event, a filmed or recorded interview with the Lord Mayor or Lady Mayoress is desired, filming and subject matter should be agreed with the Office in advance of the event. Informal use of video cameras by members of the audience is allowable within reason.

Forms of address

The formal announcement to be made when the Lord Mayor only is present is:

*“The Right Worshipful, The Lord Mayor, Councillor *****”.*

When the Consort/Lady Mayoress is also present the announcement is: -

*“The Lord Mayor and Her Consort” or “The Lord Mayor and The Lady Mayoress”, “Councillor  and Mr *****”
or “The Lord Mayor and The Lady Mayoress Councillor *****”.*

When the Lady Mayoress only is present it is: -

*“The Lady Mayoress, Mrs *****”.*

When the Lord Mayor’s Consort only is present it is

*“The Lord Mayor’s Consort, Mr *****”.*

These are also the correct descriptions for use in printed materials.

The usual mode of address is:

*“Lord Mayor – Lady Mayoress”. “Lord Mayor – Lord Mayor’s Consort”. The older form:
“My Lord Mayor” is also correct but nowadays is less frequently used.*

When the Lord Mayor is represented by the Deputy Lord Mayor he/she is addressed as “Deputy Lord Mayor”.

Similarly if the Lord Mayor is represented by a deputy, who will be a former Lord Mayor, it is: “Mr / Madam Deputy”.

The correct descriptions are: -

*“The Deputy Lord Mayor, Councillor .” and
“The Lord Mayor’s Deputy (Councillor (or Honorary Alderman)...)”.*

Variations and Queries

The Lord Mayor will wish to help ensure the success of every event. In this it is emphasised that precedence must be observed by all participating in the event and any variations to the programme must observe precedence.

The Lord Mayor, the Consort/Lady Mayoress or Deputies should not be asked to deliver a formal speech or address, conduct a recorded or filmed interview or play a particular or changed role in any ceremony associated with the function they are attending, unless a prior request has been made to the Lord Mayor’s Office and consent obtained.

Organisers may have other queries and the Lord Mayor’s Office should always be consulted on these should there exist any remaining doubt.

Appendix 3

The Lord Mayor's Award

The Lord Mayor's Award fills the significant gap between a letter of appreciation from the Lord Mayor and the award of the Freedom of the City. The standard has been set high, it being envisaged that a relatively small number of such awards would be made each year in order to preserve its distinction. Nominations for the Lord Mayor's Award should have broad support throughout the council. The recipient could be an individual, a group of individuals or an organisation. Each recipient receives a testimonial presented at Full Council at the end of the Lord Mayor's term of office.

The overriding principle is that any Lord Mayor's Awards must be on merit, this being defined as outstanding achievement or exceptional service to the City and people of Birmingham.

No Councillor, past or present, would be considered for the Award, as the same are already considered for the title of Honorary Alderman. To avoid the Award becoming politicised, the Award is not given for services rendered to any Political Party or related organisation.

The Lord Mayor's Award is not made simply for a job well done or because someone has reached a particular level. The Award will recognise 'going the extra mile' in the contribution. The person(s) should stand out from their peers in what they have achieved.

Accordingly, consideration for the Award is given to individuals or organisations who have, through their sustained endeavours, initiative and dedication:

- improved the reputation or benefited the perception or fabric of the City of Birmingham;
- benefited a significant number of the people in Birmingham or improved their lives;
- represent outstanding examples of selfless service to the City of Birmingham and its citizens;
- command the respect of their peers and who are exceptional role models in their field; or
- 'against the odds' demonstrated great moral courage and loyalty to the City and people of Birmingham.

Nominations can be made by Birmingham Councillors and / or members of the public at any time, although it is envisaged that the Lord Mayor will make the awards at the Council AGM. Nominations received are considered by the members of the Lord Mayor's Advisory Group in conjunction with the Lord Mayor and the Awards are administered and supported by the Lord Mayor's Office.

Appendix 4

Related Offices and Freedoms

The Lord Lieutenant

The Lord Mayor works closely with the Lord Lieutenant during the year. The office of Lord Lieutenant dates from the sixteenth century. The Lord Lieutenant had various tasks throughout history and was originally responsible for local military defence and the keeping of order. The Lieutenancy role also has historic associations with the magistracy and the most recent legislation is the Lieutenancies Act 1997.

The Lord Lieutenant is appointed by the Queen and is Her Majesty's representative in the region - in our case the West Midlands. The Lord Lieutenant has primary responsibility for Royal visits. The Lord Lieutenant has considerable involvement with the armed forces, undertakes some charitable and benevolent activities and is 'keeper of the rolls' (concerned with the conduct of JPs).

The Lord Lieutenant may have a large number of Deputy Lieutenants (typically 30 or 40) and is supported by a Lieutenancy Office. As determined nationally, the Lord Lieutenant takes precedence over the Lord Mayor except within civic premises. The Lord Lieutenant once appointed may remain in office until the age of 75.

The High Sheriff

A High Sheriff is appointed for each county in England and Wales. The office of High Sheriff is an ancient one dating back to Anglo-Saxon times. Before the creation in Tudor times of the office of Lord Lieutenant, the High Sheriff was the Sovereign's sole representative in a County.

The position is not to be confused with the much newer post of City or Borough Sheriff which exists in around sixteen councils in England. The Lord Mayor and High Sheriff are each present at a number of ceremonial occasions and there are significant opportunities to develop connections and common interests further.

The High Sheriff is appointed for one year and is responsible to the Crown with formal responsibility for the well-being of High Court Judges. The High Sheriff is supported by an Under Sheriff. The Shrievalty Association publishes a guide to the office of High Sheriff

Honorary Freemen

This is the highest honour that the City Council can bestow and therefore it should not be awarded lightly or frequently. It is awarded to persons who have, in the opinion of the council, rendered eminent services to the city. Local Government Act 1972 Sec 249 (5).

“After the passing of the resolution a newly appointed Freeman may, depending on custom, take the appropriate Freeman’s Oath and sign the Freeman’s Roll, his or her signature being witnessed by the Lord Mayor and Chief Executive.”

Freedom of the City

The freedom of entry associated with the Freedom of the City is granted to military service units which have rendered conspicuous service and which are closely associated with the city and the recruitment of people from the region.

The Freedom of the City is bestowed as an honour. It is worth noting that Councils outside London probably do not in any case have powers to prevent entry by HM forces even should they wish to do so.

Appendix 5

The Lord Mayor's Charity

The way in which the Lord Mayor of Birmingham's Charity operates changed in 2016. The Charity now chooses a theme which runs for three years and all projects funded by the Charity must either be based in Birmingham or be for the benefit of the people of Birmingham.

The theme for 2016-2019 is Health and Wellbeing.

One of the important and exciting benefits of the change is that all of the funds raised by the Charity will be spent right here in the city.

Another exciting benefit is that rather than each Lord Mayor choosing the good causes they will support at the start of their year, they can now also choose to make donations to local projects throughout the year. In addition, local good causes can apply to the Lord Mayor for funding by providing full details of the project and what donations will be spent on.

Corporate supporters can also apply for funding from the Lord Mayor's Charity for specific projects that their companies support, which will enhance partnership working. The three year theme will also bring continuity and help corporate supporters to plan ahead.

Civic Insignia

The Lord Mayor's engagements fall into three relatively distinct categories: ceremonial, formal and informal, and regalia and clothing are appropriate to the occasion. On ceremonial occasions (for example the Civic Service, Remembrance Sunday, the Annual Meeting and Freedom Ceremonies) the robes and chain are worn.

The chain is worn on formal occasions ranging from important major events such as Royal Visits, presentations and official visits or openings of community functions.

For other engagements, for example receiving visitors in the Lord Mayor's Parlour, non-public meetings, small localised events either the chain or the day badge may be worn although, given the interest associated with it, the chain is preferred on most occasions, particularly for community events. The badge is frequently worn at internal business and briefing meetings, at City Council and on black tie occasions.

The essential factor is the continued maintenance of the dignity of the Lord Mayor and the City. The attendance of the Lord Mayor, whether it be in robes, chain or badge, is an honour to the event and should not be regarded as a right by the organisers.

The mace is used on ceremonial and some other formal occasions and for meetings of the full City Council. It was made in Birmingham in 1897 by Elkington and Company. The mace, 4 feet 3 inches in length, is silver, cast and chased and gilded.

The Lord Mayor's chain is 18 carat gold, made and maintained in Birmingham. The chain has 55 enamelled links in two rows suspended from two shoulder clasps in the form of wreathed Tudor roses terminating in an oval enamelled badge bearing the initials of William Scholefield.

Incorporated in the suspension link is a diamond, cut by a refugee from occupied Europe (1939-45). From this badge hangs a Maltese cross incorporating the first diamond to be cut in Birmingham.

Two new links were added in 1989 for the City's Centenary. These bear the initials of Frederick Chapman and Harold Blumenthal who were the Lord Mayors in that year. The measurements of the chain are: circumference (outer row): 60 inches; (inner row): 46 inches; height of the pendant badge: 5 inches; width: 3 ½ inches.

The Lady Mayoress's chain was presented to the City by Alderman F C Clayton in 1914 and is 18 carat gold. There are 25 links alternately double-sided fleur-de-lys end openwork scrolling enclosed collet set diamonds. The central badge of openwork scrolling enclosing the letter 'B' in diamonds is set in platinum. Suspended from this is a larger badge with the City coat of arms in gold and enamel. The length of the chain is 36 inches and contains over 70 diamonds.

The Lord Mayor's Consort does not wear a Chain of Office but wears a civic badge.
